"There's no Place Like Home!"

If there be a word in the English language that, more than any other, awakens in the heart pleaslng recollections and emotions, that word is HOME. To the young, absent from that dear refuge of childhood, it recalls all those happy hours which childhood alone can know. The tender care and ever-watchful love of kind parents, the affection of brothers and sisters, the many wellremembered incidents of early life, all rise up before the mirror of the heart, and produce that sad, yet sweet, feeling, which all have experienced, of "joys departed never to return." But to these, it is not only the active associations of early life that make home pleasant; the image of the house itself, with all its appurtenances, is daguerreotyped, as it were, indelibly upon the soul, and ferm as large a part of the whole fond remembran e as, perhaps, the dearest associations. Let any one who has had the good fortune-for good fortune it is-to grow to years of discretion in "the house where he was born," ask his heart whether that house, how old-fashioned soever it may be, has not ever been to him a holy temple, sanctified by the bright presence of the household gods. To the man of business, whose daily duty it is to go forth and struggle with the world, and whose heart grows weary in the constant contest for pre-eminence, and the clash of contending interests, what is more soothing and calming than the return, at evening, to the company of the loved ones at home? And old age, retiring at last from the toil and trouble of active life, seeks, in the gentle quiet of a pleasant home, to close placidly the last days of existence. At home, the child receives its first lessons in virtue and wisdom, and is there armed, by the soft words and loving admonitions of the mother, and the encouraging precepts of the father, to go forth to fight, justly but boldly, the great battle of life. At home, the middle-aged daily gain fresh strength and courage, and it is kere that the old impart the lessons of experience. With reason may we pity those nations whose language, the result of their habits of life, contains not that dearest of all words, to a Saxon ear-

Can we, then, over-estimate the importance and, indeed, the necessity, of making home a permanent reality, by throwing around it the protecting arm of law? Should we not have a home stead exemption law? It would be a merciful, wise, and just measure. Merciful, as sparing the unfortunate debtor; wise, as preventing dishonesty by removing all temptation to be dishonest; and just, as not even depriving the creditor of proper security for his claim. Under its beneficent operation, fraudulent mortgages, to convey property out of the reach of creditors, and fraudulent bankruptcies, having the same object, would be altogether unknown, at least among the middle c ... of society. While the present state of units exists, fraudulent conveyances and traudulent insolvencies will continue, depriving creditors of the securities upon which they have depended; whereas, under the operation of a ced to rely upon property on which an execuportunity to procure sufficient security, apart speaks of Mr. Foster as follows: from such sources, for his protection.

It has been argued that such a law, exempting any amount of real or personal property from execution, would be unjust to landlords, preventing them from distraining on furniture to the amount exempted. In the first place, the landlord, being forewarned, could, if he would, be gage or bill of sale of his tenant's furniture. Besides, as the exemption is from execution, it would not prevent distress, which, as every lawyer knows, is a very different remedy. The remedy by distress would still remain in full force, for example, under a law which the new constitution of Maryland authorizes its Legislaconstitution of Maryland authorizes its Legisla-ture to enact, exempting property to the amount of seven hundred dollars from execution for one hundred and twenty-five thousand dollars:

This much-abused law, therefore, is not the or than the present system, but it would be infi- New York is worth almost its weight in gold. nitely better for the debtor. If this system were once established, what indomitable energy would it give to every workingman! With what life and spirit would be toil to secure a spot which neither misfortune, nor sickness, nor death itself could wrest from those dear to him! Renewed life would be given to all branches of industry; joy and gladness would pervade the land! Then " Peace would spread forth her white wings, and content and pleuty lie down at every door !"

British Gold.

The New York Tribune remarks, in reference to the foreign money used in that city and elsewhere to defeat Scott and Graham, that-

"It is true that Mr. Belmont is not alone in his pure "Democratic" zeal. The London Times shares his aspirations, though not his expenditures. The Manchester Examiner also hopes that Pierce will be elected; the Phare de New York puts up the same prayer-in short, the representatives and organs of monarchical, aristocratic, money lending, monopolizing Europe, all desire the defeat of Scott and of the Whigs. They recognize in Pierce "a valuable practical of many of their plans and interest, They look for his election to hinder that startling growth of America in real power and independence which has already so deeply imperilled their own ability to maintain themselves on the necks of the masses at home. They deprecate with fear and anxiety the triumph of Scott, un-der the banner of Protection to American Labor and Internal Improvements, as the beginning of a career which shall render this Republic greater, more powerful, more glorions, and far more dangerous to the thrones, the aristocracies, and the monopolies of the Old World.

No tongue can tell or intellect perceive the full

The Mineral Wealth of Maryland. A continued, uniform effort to foster the inlustry of our own country would in a few years develop such riches as the world has never known. The Cumberland (Md.) Telegraph informs us that extensive preparations are in progress in connexion with the development of the Coal interests in that quarter. A number of new companies have been formed. A tract of coal land, bought last spring by Mr. M. Miller for $700, was sold a short time since for $16,000. Another coal tract bought by Messrs. Percy for $3,000, was sold by them recently for $93,000.

With a proper and uniform protection, the wealth in our iron mines would be revealed as abundantly; but at present cars and engines and rails, made of foreign iron, pass over exhaustless peds of iron ore! At the present moment we are informed that the rise in the price of British railroad iron has been so great that many contractors of roads, now in progress, will be ruined. At present prices the difference against the contractors upon the Cincinnati and St. Louis road, if the iron were purchased now, would be $800,-000! A writer in the Baltimore American says:

"I have a caution to give our iron-masters. They must go into the manufacture of rails, if they do it at all, with the risk of having the duty on the British article entirely repealed. An attempt to do this will be made in Washington this winter-The numerous roads in progress and wanting ron, will crowd upon Congress to get rid of the duty. The agent of the British manufactures will be at their side helping them."

Is not this a deplorable condition of things? And yet, dependence upon a foreign country for any staple will forever subject us to such fluctuations. Experiences like this should teach us that it is not the producer alone who is benefited by the uniform encouragement to American labor. The consumer, who is thus secure in a regular suppley, participates in the benefits also.

Scott and Wellington.

The following fine historical eulogy of Welling ton, says the New York Tribune, is quoted in a recent notice of his death in a British periodical. Change only the name of Wellington to that of Scott, how admirably it depicts the conduct of the American chieftain in the capital of the Montezumas. "Wellington was a warrior, but he was so only to become a pacificator; he has shed the blood of man, but it was only to stop the shedding of human blood; he has borne aloft the sword of conquest, but it was only to plant in its stead the emblems of mercy; he has conquered the love of glory, the last infirmity of of noble minds, by the love of peace, the first grace of the Christian character."

Mr. Hale.

The New York Tribune of yesterday says that Hon. John P. Hale was in town on Thursday, and was understood to consent to address the Free Democracy at a meeting to be held at the Chinese Museum ; but he was suffering from a sore throat, which rendered it imprudent for him to speak, and for that reason he decided to hasten home. He left the city by the afternoon train for New

Some of the Anticipated Tricks.

We have had occasion more than once, says the New York Tribune, to notice the utterly shameless course which the Sham Democracy have pursued during the present contest. Can there be a lower deep than that to which the Locofoco speakers referred to in the following extract have sunk? We find it in The Detroit Ad-

"Locofoco speakers are now traversing this very county who have told the people within the last week that Gen. Scott had declined—that Pennsylvania and Ohio have had their Presidential elections, and that Scott has been beaten-Our friends must look out for lies."

The Theatre.

In the list of late arrivals at the Irving Hotel, are the names of Mr. and Mrs. Foster, not unknown in the theatrical world. Mr. Foster, we homestead law, every creditor would be better are informed, has been engaged to play the leadprotected, as he would not, in any case, be in- ing business at the National Theatre the coming In a letter written for the " Hon tion could not be levied, but would have full op- Journal," several years ago, Grace Greenwood

"I was also much pleased with a young Pitts-burg actor, Mr. W. M. Foster. I do not know whether this gentleman has appeared on the eastern boards, but to my thinking he has fine histronic talent. He is striking in personal appearance; his voice is clear and strong, his laugh musical and infectiously joyous, and his acting altogether refreshingly natural. I saw him once forearmed, by taking previous security for pay-ment, either from other persons, or by a mort-ment, either from other persons, or by a mort-play of The Wife, and a superb piece of acting it was, the death scene in special. I do not wonder that Mr. Foster is such a favorite with the playgoing people of Pittsburg; his future fame will justify their partiality for him, no doubt."

An insignificant lot of ground upon the corner Broadway and Wall street, opposite Trinity church, was purchased recently by a Broadway being a clean profit of thirty-five thousand dol lars. The cunning rogue of a hatter anticipated the Bank in the purchase of the lot, knowing bug-bear that some would have us believe. It would be not only not a whit worse for the credit-

> [From the Cincinnati Gazette.] Woman's Affection. Conrad Schill enlisted as a German soldier and served the term of years required by the laws of that land to qualify him to promotion. He gradually mounted the ladder of fame and of honor, and imbibing from nature, as he advanced, the doctrine of equality, readily espoused the cause of the Liberal Party in the recent revolutions that have convulsed Europe. Owing to this course he was compelled to flee his native land and find a home in America. He chose out city as his abiding place, but alas! the sudden reversion of his fortunes weighed heavily on his mind, and ere long he was a subject for the Lunatic Asylum. He had formed an attachment in his native land, for a young and accomplished lady, and that love was reciprocated; but to save his life his haste had prevented him bidding her good-bye, or advise her to follow him. But she, who had found "a foe worthy of her steel," was true to her affianced, and on learning of his arrival in this country immediately followed him. Her anticipation of their meeting was most rapturous, and oh! imagine her horror on learning that he was insane! But she forsook him not and for many long months she has watched for the return of his reason. She was often permitted to see him while confined at Columbus—the physicians hoping that such a course would aid his recovery, but in vain. Some two month since he was re turned to this city as incurable, yet his guardian angel forsook him not. At her earnest solicitation a friend signed the necessary papers to keep him out of the Commercial Hospital, and she administered to his wants; a few days since" the friend saw fit to deliver him up again to the au-thorities, but she is yet with him, visiting frequently, endeavoring to speak and look conscious-ness into him, and is about having him permanently removed, Her love is undying, and if Abelard and Heloise deserved a monument of stone, this unhappy couple should have one of solid gold. Affairs in Georgetown.

GEORGETOWN, Oct. 80-12 m. Notwithstanding the threatening aspect of the weather this morning, a noble company of Whigs from your city, Georgetown, and the surrounding country, left here at an early hour en rout for Rockville. The procession of carriages could not have been far short of a half mile in length. One of the most interesting objects in the line was a full rigged sloop on wheels, sails heisted, was a full rigged sloop on wheels, sails heisted, and the stars and stripes floating from the masthead, with about twenty passengers on beard. They were accompanied by a fine band of music, and one of the identical "baby-wakers" taken from the Mexicans by General Scott.

Serious Accident.—This morning a little boy named John Jackson, son of Mr. William Jackson, in attempting to jump from the top of a fence, fell and broke one of his arms. Dr. H. Magruder was sent for, who set and dressed it. All our flouring mills are in full blast : during the present month they have turned out over 16,000 bbls. of flour. Business on our canal is brisk. Since our last eport 60 boats have arrived, 21 of them from umberland with 2,100 tons of coal, and the balance from different points with flour, grain, wood, &c.

Drovers' Rest.—During the week 600 head of beef cattle have arrived, 228 head of which were taken by District butchers at $2.75@$3.371 per 100 lbs., and the remainder continued on to Bal timore. Sheep, $2@3 per head. Hogs, $7.50 @$8 per 100 lbs.

The flour market is rather unsettled. Good brands are in demand this morning at $4.50. Holders are asking a shade higher. Grain mar-ket firm and active at 98c.@$1 for good red, and $1@1.05 for white. We note a sale this morn ing of 7,000 bushels at the above prices; over 30,000 bush. have changed hands during the week, at the above figures. Corn is in demand at 65c. @66c., yellow and white. ELECTRO.

Parties in Mississippi. The Columbus Argus, a Whig paper published at Columbus, in the State of Mississippi, gives the following view of the prospects of the election in that State :

" Probably our Whig friends abroad would like know something of the political feeling in this State. We can tell them that our prospects here are brighter than they have ever been before, and are brighter than they have ever been that, if General Scott does not carry the State, our party need never hope to do so at any future There is probably no State in the Union in which there is more disaffection in the Democratic party than this, and the party has no idea o what extent this disaffection prevails."

THE FORGERY EXPOSED .- Hon. Mr. Campbell not only brands the story with regard to his declarations concerning General Scott a forgery, but the editor of the Lebanon Star declares that the obnoxious paragraphs in Mr. Campbell's let-ter was interpolated by the editor of the Wash-ington Union. The whole fabrication is clinched to the counter with a spike .- Winchester Repub-

But what of that, good friends? A forgery is used as forcibly by the Union as the truth. "Any coin that will pass" is good enough for it.

ACCIDENTAL DEATH .- We regret to learn that Mr. Charles G. Wilcox, a clerk in the War Department, aged about thirty-six years, met with a sudden and awful death last evening. He was returning to the city on a ferry-boat after a day's priate epitaph on his tomb, and motto to his excursion beyond the Potomac, and when near the shore on this side, his gun accidentally went off, its contents passing through his head. Mr. Wilcox was a most worthy citizen and estimable gentleman, and leaves behind him a young and

The success of the Ravel Family, at the National Theatre, during the present week, has been very great. Every night they have played to crowded houses. The surprising feats of the performers on the tight rope, and the tricks and transformations, excel any thing of the kind ever before exhibited in this city, and excite the wonder and admiration af all who witness them. Tonight, "Godenski, or the Skater of Wilna," and the "Four Lovers," both comic pantomimes, are to be performed; also, the "Ring Suspension." Gabriel and Francois Ravel, Marzetti and Mmc. Marzetti, Dehman. the brothers Martinetti, the Messrs. Francks, Collet, Brilliant, and Mme. Axel all appear.

The Goodall concert comes off to-night at Iron Hall, and we hope they may have a crowded house. It is a very talented family, and deserving the encouragement of all lovers of good music. Go, hear and enjoy, this evening.

A Stupendows Fraud:

We presume the history of popular elections does not furnish a parallel to the fraud attempted to be practised upon the Southern people by the Washington Union, which was exposed in our paper on Wednesday last. It was as deep, comprehensive, and artful, as it was false, utterly unfounded, and entirely fraudulent. But for its timely exposure, it might have ruined the prospects of the Whig party in the South. It might have made a hater and deplorer of slavery Presipects of the Whig party in the South. It might have made a hater and deplorer of slavery Presi-dent. It came out in an authoritative shape. It was prefaced by an elaborate yet positive edi-torial in the Union. The publication had ap-pended to it the name of a distinguished member of Congress from Ohio, and stated positively that the reputed author knew that Gen. Scott was not only with him in applicant on the state of the contract of the c only with him in sentiment on the subject of slavery, but that he would sign a bill for the repeal of the fugitive slave law!

Was ever the desperation of party managersof men who desire the honors and emolmuments of high station—of persons who look upon the attainment of public office merely as a means of personal and political aggrandizement, without reference to the interests of the country or the calls of patriotism—more clearly manifested? If any similar instance has ever occurred, it is not any similar instance has ever occurred, it is not within our reading or knowledge. The Union now has the public printing. It is supposed to be worth at least fifty thousand dollars a year clear profit. It is presumed the Union is very anxious to retain the printing, a thing it cannot long do should a Whig President and Congress be elected by the people. Hence, without straining an inference or burlesquing probabilities, it is fair to infer that the Union is not wholly uninferenced in the determination of the present canterested in the determination of the present can-

The Union gave the fraudulent statement, author's name and all, to which we have referred, on the 12th instant. On the 16th it follows up the subject with additional ardor and vehemence, and reproduces, again, as evidence, the last paragraph of the extract above given, signed by Lewis D. Campbell!

Now, is not this intolerable—really too much to be quietly borne? Every species of abuse has been lavished upon our party—the lowest depths of calumny have been sounded for missiles to hurl at our candidate—and every thing which could be done to defeat us has been done—and now, on the eve of the election, when it is almost too late for correction and explanation to reach everywhere, unmixed, unblushing, artfully-concooted forgery is resorted to!

That this detected forgery is only a part of the machinery which will be brought to bear to se-cure the election of Franklin Pierce, we have ample reason to believe.

Not content with putting the name of Mr. Campbell to a publication he never wrote—not content with the attempt thus to make out Winfield Scott a traitor to the section which gave him birth-nol content with the attempt to c mit a feul wrong upon the people of the South and the whole country, as the Union did by its fraudulent publications of the 12th and 16th instant, it seems that the Democratic managers at Washington have printed one hundred thousand orged handbills to be circulated over the South JUST BEFORE THE ELECTION."

Is not this strong evidence of an intention to premeditatedly perpetrate a wrong? to know-ingly attempt to deceive a whole people? to ununscrupulously use another man's name to ac-complish the most unrighteous of purposes, without his knowledge or consent? It would seem so. Can it be doubted? Truth, it seems to us, would say not.

Again, we warn the people of the South to be-ware of fraud and deception. It is apparent that all descriptions will be attempted to be practiced. We have no doubt this Union fraud has been systematically circulated in every nook and corner of the slaveholding States. And, if our brethren of the Whig press are not industrious in circulating the antidote, the poison may be productive of disastrous results.
